

Matt Orr's 'Short Course'

This course is designed to serve three purposes. I originally conceived of it to send via email to friends whose worldviews seemed incomplete without access to the information included here. It was getting harder and harder to have political discussions with people close to me because of the ignorance imposed by the corporate media. Because some people are reluctant to take much time to consider the hypothesis that the war on terror is a fraud, I endeavored to make each mailing brief.
